

WEDDINGS.

MR. H. STANLEY MARSHMAN TO MISS RUBY STOYEL.

A large number of guests assembled on August 8 in the Exeter Church to witness the very pretty wedding of Miss Ruby Stoyel, daughter of Mr. J. M. Stoyel, of Largs, and Mr. H. Stanley Marshman, of Pineville, Loxton. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Vivian Roberts. The church choir sang "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden," and the organist played the "Wedding March." The church was prettily decorated with fern and white flowers, the bridal party standing under an arch of green, with wedding bells. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a very pretty frock of white paillette silk with detachable train, trimmed with fine net and silk lace, and orange blossom.

A long veil was worn over a wreath of orange blossom, and she carried a bouquet of white flowers. There were four maids—Misses Marshman, White, J. Quin, and Motley. Immediately following the bride was a sweet little dot of five dressed like an old picture in long gown of white ninon and silk mitten and socks, white fez cap with silk rosettes over the ears, and carrying a posy of white roses. The bridesmaids wore one-piece frocks of white embroidered muslin with crimson shoes and stockings, crimson carnations and camillas, with fine fern and streamers. The best man was Mr. Ernest Stoyel, and the groomsmen Mr. Clem Marshman, Mr. Jack Stoyel, and Mr. Ken Quin. The guests were afterwards received by the mother and father of the bride at the Masonic Hall, Semaphore. After the reception and breakfast a programme of music and dancing was carried out. The presents, which were both numerous and beautiful, were on view at the hall. We noticed a number of very stylish and pretty evening frocks, evening dress being the rule. The hall was nicely decorated with asparagus fern and red flowers, and the tables were also decorated with the bridesmaids' colours.
